

Father's Day Treasure Hunt

The full set of clues can be found below – NOW WITH PICTURES! Each should enable you to retrieve a number from a South Herefordshire location. For full instructions, please visit www.daysoutwithdad.org.uk/fathersday.

*PLEASE NOTE... On one of our flyers for this event, there was a misprint. Please note that the treasure is NOT buried. It is simply hidden at ground level. STRICTLY NO DIGGING PLEASE!

Also (would you believe it?) the "dilapidated structure" has now been dismantled. However, its "western wall" still remains and the treasure is hidden at the base of its western side. You can now park where the structure once stood, and can still see it on <http://maps.google.com> (satellite view)

Clue 1

It's a hard life they led
On timbers that came to nil
All they heard was radio gaga
Way up on the hill
We were the champions of the world
A kind of magic is there still.
Play the game, get in shape
And take sides (less three) before you go slightly mad!

Clue 2

It happens in this millennium
Green grass grows everywhere
And in the last millennium
A steadfast girl played there.
Take shape of seating arrangements under the conker tree
And take sides.

Clue 3

Once only whites
In this colourful place
Which wasn't for dads
In any case.
Plastered by habit
Yet still intact
Say your prayers
And perhaps you'll extract
A bead or a rosary?
Take the windows on the North-West-facing wall.

Clue 4

Easily spotted by its trees,
A host to an annual fest of high knees
And a bit of a fiddle
Though not in the middle
This place a monarch should please.
Should this one really be allowed? Well, partly at least.
Take the last digit of the year of planting.

Clue 5

My mother she adopted me
And fed me milk at first
Udders good, whole cow better
Drank waters for my thirst.
Sadly now I'm dead and gone
Proud stories capture me
Even so, I leant my name
To that which now is free.
Take the month (less two) in which the local school buildings were opened.

Clue 6

In a land of precious metal
A lowly village could
Aspire to greater heights
With neither lead nor wood.
Remember those who died nearby
~~And take the last digit of the year in which the porch was built. UPDATE!! ...~~
And take the last digit of the year of the event which the porch was erected to commemorate.

Clue 7

A girl names a house in a place that's not little
Where a boy grew up who received no acquittal
What she may lack in a skip and a jump
She cannot take from a nearby pump
If she takes too much then woe betide her
But if pressed she'll admit it feels good inside her.
Head more to the East, think more of the West
On this is your thinking best to rest.
Find the church from the map
And in the nave, take sides round the base of a lantern.

Clue 8

Not bad a place for children to play
Not poor were those who owned it one day
Cleats realign – there are seams nearby
Slighted by a woman with a reach for the sky.
This lady has no lack of balls.
Take the number in the layer one from the top.
